Case # 16-12998

September 25 & 26. Kevin in contempt for visitation abuse. Kevin Kramer & I have a common child which there is a visitation agreement between us in regards to. This is a court order & must be followed or else whoever is in violation of the court order is in contempt of court, its considered legally binding (the law). Our visitation states as follows: Kevin shall have visitation alternating weeks Thursday from 10 am to Friday at 6 pm, then the next week Thursday from 10 am to Sunday at 6 pm. The right of first refusal is also in our court order. Where it states that whenever the father (or either parent) cant be present with the minor child during when its their said parenting time, they must "Whenever possible, offer the other parent first right to serve as babysitter." This is 5.13 in our agreement. It doesn't say that when one parent is unable to fulfill their time with the child due to plans that they are allowed makeup visitation.

Case # 16-12998

9/22 Thursday - September 22. Kevin had visitation. This started his 4 day visitation lasting until 9/23 Sunday at 6 pm. Kevin had to work at a private yoga + meditation centered school in Yorkville Illinois
Sept 23 on Friday. He has to be there at 9 am, so in order for him to go, he dropped our child off with me Thursday night, around 9:30 - 10 pm. He originally said 9, and although we live a few blocks apart he insisted on driving around so she be asleep when he dropped her off at my house. Friday he was working, so due to 9/24 the order, she was with me. Saturday Kevin agreed Sept 24 she should go to 9 am YMCA gymnastics which I took her to, and he picked her up from me at Target afterwards - He returned her to me that evening. Madeline had what looked like a hickey on her neck. I asked if any one touched her neck. (because I was thinking it could be a bruise) - She pointed right to the hickey and said "Daddy kissed my neck". Earlier Saturday Kevin and I agreed he'd pick up Madeline from me, Sunday at 10 am for the remainder of his visitation. But Saturday Evening, after that agreement, when he returned Madeline, She said she wanted to stay with me, and I offered to take her to church with me in which Kevin agreed that was our new plan next → and Kevin agreed he would pick Madeline up from church, after it got out. Come Sunday 1/25 September 25th. I explained to Kevin how Madeline had a hickey on her neck via phone communication and how she was saying that he kissed her there. He made up conflicting stories as to what the mark was, which I sent him a picture of this. You can retrieve this picture from me at jeickmeier1@hotmail.com. Kevin then showed up at my house, I believe in an effort to not have church people see her w/ a hickey. Kevin went against our plan and barracaded me in my driveway. This put me in emotional stress. I was still planning on giving Madeline to him after church. I called Dew P.d to have Kevin leave my premises in which the officer I spoke to yelled at me and demanded I give him the child then he said he would have him leave. I felt this was inappropriate. I had to call State police to get anything done. Later I brought Madeline to Kevin. He asked me to bring her to Germanfest. Kevin + his whole family were there drunk + drinking, but none the less I brought Madeline there + waited patently for Kevin. Who arrived w/ more family + his dad + mom were already there next ;

Case # 16-12998

9/25 Hammered. over text Kevin agreed that he'd bring Madeline back to me at 8 pm which is already 2 hours past the court order. So I was being lienient in agreeing to this. That evening Kevin refused to bring the child back. He decided to go against the court order, & keep her overnight at his parents who were drinking ~~at~~ that day.

9/26 September 26th Monday. She is supposed to be with me but she is not. We have court today & Kevin has her. He said that he's planning on ~~[redacted]~~ letting her come back to me today. but that is unfair. he has not specified a time he'll be returning her and that is giving me an unknown time amount to obtain and retain a sitter and be to court in time.

he is in violation of the court order by not following.
